Stonewall Jackson's Daughter.

Baltimore Gazette.

When the Jackson statue was unveiled in Richmond some years ago, after the processions and the oratory, Governor Kemper brought forward upon the platform a slender little girl, and addressing the great crowd of the old Confederate soldiers, said: "Comrades, let me present to you the daughter of Stonewall Jackson." Somehow the tears sprang to every eye at the sight of this delicate child of their resistless leader. There was no cheering, but every face showed a deep emotion. Ever since that time a tender and poetic interest has clung to this little lady, and there are thousands who care to know of her well-being. She has recently arrived in this city, and has been entered at the Southen Home school. Miss Julia Jackson is about sixteen years old, tall, slender and graceful. She is a blonde, with fresh color and fair hair. Her eyes are of exquisite clear gray, large and expressive. Her manners are gentle, but not shy or reserved. There is not any marked resemblance to her illustrious father, and she seems hardly conscious of the distinction that she enjoys and of the romantic interest that she carries with her.

A DARING ROBBERY.

How a Little Negro Ran Out of His Coat.

Atlanta Constitution.

Yesterday one of the most daring robberies that has ever come to our notice was committed at noon, on Marietta street, near the corner of Peachtree, by a small negro boy, who, upon being arrested by the police, gave his name as Washington Fannin. The robbery consisted in the negro picking a lady's pocket as she walked along the street in company with two lady friends. The lady, whose name we failed to get, saw the negro as he put his hand in her pocket and grabbed him by the coat. The negro seeing that he had been discovered worked out of his coat like a snake out of its skin, only a little faster, and made off across the street. Detective Ed Murphy being near at hand, at once took in the situation and after a short chase succeeded in catching the negro from whom the pocket-book was recovered.

The robbery and the arrest of the negro occupied only a few minutes and created little excitement further than among the people who were near at hand. Officer Clark of the police, came up shortly after and escorted Washington Fannin to the station-house, where he will remain until to-day, when he will be remanded to jail for safe keeping. The robbery, for boldness, has never had an equal in Atlanta. The negro who committed the crime is not more than fifteen years of age, but from the evidence of yesterday he will make an expert thief when he arrives at the age of a man.

VIOLATED VOWS.

Two Foolish Women Leave Their Homes and Families With Two Equally Foolish Men.

Attica and Buffalo each furnish an item for the elopement column, which is becoming a regular part of the day's issue in metropolitan journals. The first named place, though not so populous as the latter, is a little ahead in the matter of sensations, as the eloping parties were both well known, and had been well talked about, so that it was not a matter of much surprise to the knowing ones when it was learned that Mr. E. R. West, a former member of the firm of Andrews, Bellsmith & West, had abandoned his family and gone west in company with Mrs. J. S. Maltby, the wife of a well known business man. A liason had existed between the parties for some time, and this fact had in some way come to the knowledge of Mr. Maltby. It appears that they were in the habit of meeting at a hotel in this city, and some one who knew them had informed the injured husband of the fact. He taxed his wife with infidelity and finally told her that unless she ceased her intimacy with West, she must leave the place. She took him at his word and left in company with her paramour. He it seems had sold out his interest in the store and converted all his property into ready cash. In the evening that he took his departure he was extraordinarily affectionate to his wife and asked her if she wanted any groceries sent up, adding that he should be out late and that she need not sit up for him. After he had gone out she also left the house to make a call; and during her absence he returned and laid a hundred dollar greenback on the table, with a bundle of receipted bills which he had paid. It is supposed that the pair have fled to California. Mrs. West is left in comfortable circumstances and probably better off now than when she had but a nominal share in her husband's affections, and the same can be said of Mr. Maltby and his family.

The Buffalo case was rather more prosaic and attended with some humorous passages. It seems that a man named Peter Arnberg, who lived near Alden, had married a widow with two children some four years ago, and one child now about three years old had blessed the union. About a year ago he hired a man named Henry Fox to work on his farm, and this year had rented the farm to Fox, he himself working at odd jobs wherever he could get employment. During the year that Fox was an inmate of the Arnberg family, a mutual attachment was formed between him and the buxom wife of the unsuspecting farmer, which culminated in an elopement, she taking all the children with her. The husband did not appear to care a great deal about his wife, but wanted the baby, and incidentally he would like to see Fox long enough to give him a good whipping.

Raleigh Observer, 26th.

We understand that it is considered by gentlemen, better versed in such matters than ourselves, that Col. Thomas M. Holt is the Democrat referred to in "Lochiel's" letter to the Charlotte Observer as a possible independent candidate for Governor.

We hasten, therefore, to declare our decided belief that if Col. Holt is the Democrat alluded to, Judge Tourgee has been barking up the wrong tree. Tourgee and Col. Keogh have certainly been wasting time if they have been setting traps to induce Col. Tom Holt to fall into Republican schemes.

It does not need any intimate association with Col. Holt to justify one in saying that he could never be drawn from the Democratic fold.

There is no gift in the position of the Republican party that could cause him to waver one moment in his fidelity to the great interests of our people and to the great principles declared in the platforms of our party.

Doubtless he has in common with a hundred other good and worthy citizens an honorable ambition to be the chief magistrate of his native State. But without any consultation with him we take the liberty of saying that he would unhesitatingly decline every offer to run as an independent candidate for Governor against the regular Democratic nominee.

Nor, indeed, does there appear that there is any reason for making such a suggestion. As yet we have given but little thought to possible gubernatorial candidates, but certainly, as things stand to-day, Colonel Holt's prospects seem, to a casual observer, to be as fair as those of any other aspirant.

He is not a man whose comings and goings are heralded by the papers, but he is an unpretentious gentleman, who is rated at his true worth by those who know him, and whose devotion to the best interests of North Carolina is acknowledged by all.

And in this connection we may say that while we are sure that he would accept the nomination if tendered, yet we have heard him repeatedly say that he is not pressing his claims, as he is not a candidate on the anxious bench.

If the people should declare in his favor, we do not doubt that it would be quite agreeable to him; but if not, why, then, they will miss one good Governor—perhaps to get another.

KILLED BY HIS WIFE.

Philadelphia Times, 25th.

STRATFORD, Conn., Sept. 24.—At six this morning the Rev. Dexter L. Lounsbury's household was startled by the sharp report of a pistol and the exclamation of Mrs. Lounsbury: "I have killed my husband." Clutching the pistol Mrs. Lounsbury ran up stairs and into the room of the domestic, Mary Cumming, and pointing to the revolver again cried: "See, I have killed my husband." The girl and her mistress went down stairs together and entered the bed-room of the clergyman. Laying the revolver on the bureau Mrs. Lounsbury watched with eagerness while the servant shook Mr. Lounsbury and felt to see whether his heart beat. The body was yet warm, but the man was dead.

Eighteen months ago Mr. Lounsbury who had been preaching in Bridgeport, received a call to Christ Episcopal Church, in Stratford. For sixteen years Mrs. Lounsbury had been ailing, more or less, until she had become extremely cross and irritable. When he married her she was a girl of beauty. Her illness, while it made her irritable, had never caused her to show signs of mental weakness.

Two hours after the tragedy, a jury of inquest summoned began an investigation. The body lay beside them on the bed, just as it had been found. The domestic, Mary Cummings, little Anna M. Lounsbury, Dr. Allen and a neighbor's servant were the witnesses examined. Mary Cummings told the story substantially as it is given above. She at first doubted, she said, whether Mrs. Lounsbury had done the shooting, and asked her whether she really had murdered her husband. "I have, I have," sobbed the woman. Yesterday Mrs. Lounsbury told the witness that her husband said that to-day he desired her to submit to an operation that might help her. She demurred, but he insisted and said that if she did not submit to the operation he would turn her out of the house.

The little daughter told of being awakened by the report of a pistol. She dressed and ran down to her father's room and shook him, but could get no answer. "I then lifted one of his eyelids," she said, "and saw a film there, and then mamma and Mary came down and I went with Mary for a doctor."

When the jury began to ask the girl whether her father and mother lived happily together, whether they ever quarreled and whether her father treated her mother kindly, the child broke into a paroxysm of sobs and tears and had to be led from the room.

Dr. Allen testified that from the condition of things in the room he judged that the revolver had been held within a few inches of the back of the dead man's head, as he lay in bed, sleeping on his right side. The ball went to the base of the brain, causing instant death. The witness added that he had treated Mrs. Lounsbury for several months, and that he doubted not that the operation she had spoken of to the servant meant the wearing of a supporter, which he had advised Mr. Lounsbury to get for his wife and which witness was to come and adjust to-day. Witness said that Mr. Lounsbury treated his wife affectionately.

Mrs. Lounsbury said. "I am willing to tell all I know about this dreadful affair. My husband did not know I had the pistol. After burglars tried to get into our pantry recently, and got into Mrs. Burritt's, next door, I spoke to my husband about getting a pistol, but he would not listen to it. Finally I became so frightened when left here alone that one day when I was in New Haven I bought a revolver. I used to keep it in a box hidden from my husband. Some nights I slept with it under my pillow. All I recollect about last night is that we retired as usual. During the night I remember awakening my husband and asking him to get up and get me a drink of water, which he did. I know I shot him, but I cannot tell how or why. I did not do it to avoid any pain or danger. I am willing to suffer the full penalty of the law, but I cannot tell why I killed him. He always treated me kindly."

The jury made a verdict that Mr. Lounsbury came to his death at the hands of his wife, the act being committed during a condition of temporary derangement of mind occasioned by disease. Mrs. Lounsbury was allowed to remain in her house under guard. To-morrow the grand jury will meet at her house and decide what shall be done with her. Mr. Lounsbury was born in Bethaney, Conn., and studied to be a physician. He practiced for a time in Meriden, but later entered Trinity College, Hartford, and studied for the ministry. His brother, Cooke Lounsbury, is a well-known Hartford lawyer. Mrs. Lounsbury is a former resident of New Haven and is of good family. She is thirty-six years of age. He was thirty-five.

QUAKER CITY DEMOCRATS

THE TOWN MEETING TICKET INDORSED---VAUX HAPPY.

The Convention Called by the Democratic Executive Committee Approve the Nominations.

Philadelphia Times, 25th.

The Democratic nominating conventions were held according to programme yesterday, under the call of Democratic City Executive Committee, and, as was expected, the ticket nominated at the Horticultural Hall town meeting on Saturday evening last, was indorsed without any opposition worth speaking of. The only two points of interest during the day were the City Treasurer's Convention, where Charles S. Austin, who had been working for the nomination, had announced that he would let his name go before the convention, and the meeting of the Vaux committee, where it was thought possible that something spicy might occur. The Sheriff's convention, at the Assembly Buildings, was called to order by William D. Kendrick. Ex-Alderman William P. Becker was elected permanent president. Samuel Hartranft was then nominated for Sheriff by acclamation and after a committee had been appointed to notify him, the convention adjourned, having been in session less than half an hour. At Washington Hall, Eighth and Spring Garden streets, the delegates who had assembled to nominate a candidate for Register of Wills were called to order by John Slevin, temporary chairman.

Dr. Judah Isaacs was elected permanent president, and Hon. Thomas Greenbank was unanimously nominated for Register of wills. The only show of a contest was at the City Treasurer's convention, which met at Kelly's Hall, Christian street, below Eighth, at half past ten o'clock, and was called to order by William Tillyer. After the appointment of temporary secretaries and doorkeekers, credentials were received, and all the wards, with the exception of the Twenty-first, were found to be fully represented. Not a single contestant appeared, and the organization was then made a permanent one by the unanimous selection of Dr. C. Ernest Kamerly, of the Second ward, as president. The temporary secretaries and doorkeepers were made permanent. Dr. Kamerly commenced business by concisely stating the object of the convention and calling for nominations for the office of City Treasurer. Charles S. Austin of the Eleventh ward, was placed in nomination, and his name was immediately followed by that of S. Davis Page, of the Fifth ward. Nominations were then closed, and a motion to make the nomination of Mr. Page a unanimous one was offered, only to be met by many objections. The Chair stated that it would be only a matter of courtesy to Mr. Austin to proceed to a formal ballot, and suggested that course. The gentleman who had presented Mr. Austin's name was on his feet in a second, disclaiming any desire of "courtesy" being extended to his candidate, and demanding the ballot as a "right." Dr. Kamerly, quietly, remarking that "courtesy involves right and right involves courtesy," ordered the balloting to proceed. But one ballot was necessary, the vote being: Austin, 10; Page, 74. The result was received with hearty applause, and then ex-City Commissioner Fahy, in a speech abounding with eulogistic praise of the candidate and predicting an overwhelming ratification by the people of the choice convention, moved to make the nomination unanimous. This was carried with a shout. After the officers of the convention had been duly thanked and a committee appointed to notify Mr. Page of the action taken, the president declared the body adjourned.

THE COUNTY COMMITTEE SATISFIED.

The county committee met, in the neighborhood of seventy-five strong, at their headquarters, Broad and South Penn Square. Chairman Vaux called the meeting to order promptly at 10 o'clock and stated the object of the assemblage. Referring to the county ticket which had been placed in nomination by the town meeting held at Horticultural Hall on Saturday evening last, he said: "It is such a ticket as has not been equaled for the past twenty years. It is the voice of the people calling from the ranks men who have never asked public favors. You are assembled to-day to raise your hands and solemnly endorse the nominations, because they are put forth in the same spirit that actuated the organization of your committee."

The ex-Mayor next read the annexed resolutions with marked emphasis:

WHEREAS, The county Democratic committee, originated in the demonstration of the honest, sincere, earnest Democrats of Philadelphia to use all honorable means to destroy the ring machine despotism over the Democratic party in Philadelphia county; and

WHEREAS, Since the organization of this committee the Democrats of the county have been enfranchised from the subjugation of the ring; and

WHEREAS, This committee has, by its efforts forced the Radical ring to confess that its arrogance has been destroyed, and it had to yield an apparent submission to common decency in political management; and

WHEREAS, This committee has caused the Democratic ring to confess that the masses of the party will no longer bear its domination, therefore,

RESOLVED, That this committee, having achieved such results in the purpose of its origin, and by its action, congratulates the Democracy of this county and State on its success.

RESOLVED, That the nominations made by the mass meeting of the Democracy in Horticultural Hall on Saturday evening last were in harmony with the object of this organization.

RESOLVED, That the committee having favored and aided in the assembling of that meeting, and regarding its action as the full expression of the sentiments of the entire Democracy of the city, the candidates nominated at the meetiug hereby have the pledge and earnest support of this committee.

RESOLVED, That the organization of the county Democratic committee be continued and fully completed, and the committee on organization be required to meet every Tuesday night, at these headquarters, for this purpose, until further ordered by this committee.

Mr. Vaux, at the conclusion of the reading, was about to put the resolution without debate, when he was interrupted by Pattrick Dougherty, of the Twenty-sixth ward, who desired to know something about the arrangements by which the town meeting ticket was placed in nomination. The chairman quickly informed him that the future was to be considered, not the past, and put the question. The whole meeting apparently voted "aye," and the announcement was about to be made that it was unanimous when Mr. Dougherty objected, and the chairman, heeding him so far as to instruct the secretaries to record one vote in the negative, adjourned the meeting.

Bring out the Springling Pot.

The Charlotte Democrat says: "If the authorities and citizens of Raleigh don't sprinkle their streets, or at least Fayetteville street, during the week of the State Fair (provided it is dry weather) there may be another proposition to move the "State House" and Fair to some locality that will make an effort to keep the dust from stifling the people. Do you hear that."

MRS. GRANT.

An Interview With the Wife of the Returned Hero.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

In the course of a conversation with your correspondent, she said that neither she nor the General had the slightest idea of receiving a public reception in this city. They anticipated meeting with their personal friends here, but nothing bordering upon the magnificent welcome which they have received was ever dreamed of. The following chat with Mrs. Grant occurred on the steamer as it entered the bay last night, but was reported to your correspondent too late for transmission, the difference in time being greatly against us. Mrs. Grant was arm-in-arm with her son Fred., when, in answer to a question put by the reporter; she said: "We had a delightful trip all the way over. It was not rough at all, save one or two days, when our course was diagonally to the swell."

Reporter—Was it not monotonous?

Mrs. Grant—Oh, not at all. We could walk the deck every day and all times, and that is something the General is very fond of. After breakfast every morning he would spend an hour in the smoking-room, watch the chess-players and read "Les Miserables." Ha has read it through, and again on the trip—

Rep.—Are you glad to get home?

Mrs. G.—I can hardly tell—Japan was so pleasant.

Rep.—The pleasantest part of the trip?

Mrs. G.—I don't suppose I can say that, but last recollections are always pleasantest, you know; up the inland sea in a man-of-war, and it is the most beautiful country I ever saw.

Rep.—More so than Switzerland?

Mrs. G.—Switzerland is a tender spot with me. I did not see enough of it. I must go back there. But the inland sea is so beautiful, and we stopped at so many charming little places, that I think it is the greenest spot on my memory of all the scenic beauties I have witnessed.

Rep.—How did the freedom of Japanese life strike you?

Mrs. G.—I was charmed with it. Its courtesies and elegancies are so marked in comparison with the Chinese. I was entertained by a Premier whose lineage traces back 2,000 years, and, although a Republican, I can not but accord the honor something of the esteem in which it is held in the Premier's own country.

Rep.—The yachts are cheering you.

Mrs. G.—I guess it is more for the General; at any rate, I will appropriate some of it, as I have already seventeen of the thirty-eight guns at the fort. Only twenty-one of them were for the General, so I am going to attribute them to myself.

"Ain't they pretty?" said Mrs. Grant, referring to the yachts, and waving her handkerchief in response to the cheers.

"I scarcely expected," resumed she, "to come to San Francisco under such circumstances. Years ago when the General came here, Fred. was a boy, and I had to stay at home. I little thought then that I should first see San Francisco coming through the Golden Gate, with all your good people out to welcome me."

Rep—They are not welcoming you, but they are anxious to see you Mrs. President Grant once more.

Mrs. G.—I can't say anything about that. The General and I never talk politics.

Rep.—There was some opposition to having the military ceremonies tomorrow, as it was Sunday.

Mrs. G.—Of course I should have preferred a week day, but I don't see any harm in it.

Col. Fred.—I don't think father would have objected materially.

Mrs. G.—I am sorry I could not have seen all this in daylight.

HOW TO TREAT THE GIRLS.

Philadelphia Record.

Two young men, with their high-lows elevated on the rail of the smoking department, in the Exhibition building, were discussing which of the two had gallanted the more country female cousins around the show, and which had spent the most in these attentions.

"Jimmy, my boy," said the eldest, "I will let you into the most magnificent scheme, if you cleave to it, and keep close pan. My country relatives come down in regiments, and with the biggest carpetsacks and appetites I ever beheld. I knew that the girls expected to be fed when I brought them out here, and when I tell you I stuffed seventeen, and stuffed 'em full, on two dollars and seventy-two cents, you will say to yourself, 'old stock you are drawing it out stiff,' but it's true."

The listener pulled hard at his cigar, and then asked: "How in goodness did you do it?"

"Like a breeze, my boy," said the other. "Pop-corn balls and cider, that's the bill of fare; pop-corn and cider. There is something in a five-cent pop-corn ball that just knocks a butter-brown country girl off her pins. I knew what the restaurants charged, so I would say 'girls, have a pop-corn ball' and the girls would take it lively. In a half hour they begin to get dry, and I chuck into each a three-cent glass of cider. When the cider grapples with the pop-corn, it begins to swell and the country girls wonder how it is they don't feel hungry; I walk them around until I get the pop-corn pretty well banked in, and then I insist on treating 'em to a second. Bill so far just thirteen cents for each gal. In about fifteen minutes I come around to a cider press and give them another glass of juice. That settles the business. I can see buttonholes stretching in their dresses, and I know that for sixteen cents a head I have satisfied the appetites which every gal of 'em has brought down here to be whetted up."

The listener, who said he expected ten new female country cousins during the week, grabbed his friend warmly by the hand, and, with tears in his eyes, invited him to take a glass of lemonade.

WESTON PICKING UP.

THE GREAT WALKING MATCH FOR THE ASTLEY BELT.

Merritt, Weston and Hazael Gaining on Rowell—Rumor that Rowell had been Poisoned—Full Report.

By Telegraph to the News.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 26, 12 M.—Weston's movements throughout the night were erratic and uncertain. His physician this morning declares that he is not in his right mind.

Rowell has been off the track ever since 17 minutes past six. He is, at noon, in his tent, and has been a terribly sick man. He will take the track a very sick man indeed.

Rowell's sickness has infused new life into Merritt, Hazael, Guyon and Hart, and they are all passing along with increased energy, Merritt manages to keep the lead of four miles over Hazael and is only 16 miles behind Rowell.

Rowell came one the track at eleven minutes past noon and was greeted with a storm of applause. He looks sick and left the track again at 12:30, during which time he made one mile and two laps.

1 o'clock, P. M.—Weston, 364 miles 3 laps; Rowell, 421, 2 laps; Hazael, 402, 2 laps; Guyon, 387, 7 laps; Enniss, 343, 3 laps; Merritt, 407; Hart, 374, 3 laps; Krone, 341, 7 laps; Taylor, 193, and Federmeyer 322, 6 laps.

5 P. M.—It was rumored this afternoon that Rowell had been poisoned, but the trouble was a rush of blood to the head, a severe attack of colic and vomiting. He went off the track several times, but improved and is walking Easily. Merritt, Enniss, Hart and Krohne are also walking without apparent difficulty, but Guyon, Weston and Hazael make great effort.

THE VERY LATEST.

9 P. M.—Weston, 394; Rowell, 445; Hazael, 429; Guyon, 412; Enniss, 371; Merritt, 436; Hart, 401; Krohne, 208; Federmeyer, 348.

NOTE.—It will thus be seen that Merritt is only nine miles be behind Rowell; Haezell sixteen miles, and Weston fifty-one, behind Rowell. From nine o'clock Thursday night to nine o'clock last night, Merritt has made eighty-six additional miles; Weston eighty and Hazell seventy-five miles. Merritt seems to be the coming man just now, but Weston is picking up and there is yet a chance for him, especially as he is expected to show his power of endurance to-day and to-night. Ed. NEWS.

AN OHIO BELLE'S ESCAPADE.

She Dresses in Boy's Clothes and is Followed by a Hooting Crowd.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

One of the fair and attractive young girls in Columbia became possessed of a freak one afternoon last week, and that freak was to attire herself in male attire and take a stroll upon the street. She confided in a young girl friend, also one of the belles of the palce, who thought it would be high fun, and urged her on. So they retired to a bed-room of her home, and there the fair but giddy girl soon divested herself of the feminine dress that enveloped her beautifully developed and voluptious form, and soon got herself inside of a pair of breeches and a Prince Albert belonging to a younger brother. As she was fat and plum, no padding and stuffing was necessory to make the breeches pants and vest fit. On the contrary they looked as snug and trim over her well-rounded limbs and splendidly filled-out form as though made for her by actual measure. Tucking up her wavy brown hair under a boy's cap, and buttoning the Prince Albert tight and close over her breast, the foolish maiden sallied forth on the main thoroughfare of Columbia, accompanied by her young lady friend. Strolling along, meeting old friends and acquaintances, none of whom seemed to recognize her, her first feelings of fear disappeared, and she commenced to feel brave and "manly." Arriving in that portion of Columbia in which are located the headquarters of several Buuilding Associations, the girls encountered a crowd of men and boys, who were loafing on the corner. Just to "show off," the young disciple of Dr. Mary Walker strutted along with a lofty mein and majestic gait. But who ever saw a woman that could disguise the woman's walk? The crowd of loafers detected something about her strut, as well as her plump figure, and commenced to make jeering remarks. In order to show these b'hoys that she was "a man" the Columbia Bell put on a still bolder air and whisked her pretty head in defiance, and thus she fell. She whisked just once too often and too vigorously, when lo! the hair pins broke loose, and down tumbled her rich and abundant suit of way brown hair, clear to the middle of her back. The men and boys at first looked dumbfounded, but only for an instant, and then burst forth into a rude a laughter as they viewed her crop of ringlets and saw her mortification and embarrassment. Her face became crimson and then white, but she soon gained her self possession and deliberately stooped and rearranged her hair under her cap. The sprightly maiden looked at first as though she would show fight, and wanted to pummel some or all of the loaferish men and boys who were ridiculing her with foul language But her better sense conquered, and mortified beyond expression, and all at once realizing her position, the pretty girl started for home on the run, accompanied by her equally foolish friend. As she ran her hair again fell down her back, the plumpness of her form broke the buttons from the coat, and it was only with difficulty that she could keep her brothers "unmentionables" from falling off. The crowd followed her hooting and yelling, some shouting, "Oh, get it pasted!" "Go it old gal!" "Look at her stride!" and other equally vulgar exclamations. Home was reached, the gate hastily opened, the door unlocked, and the fair maiden reached her room exhausted, overcome with shame, and feeling that she was disgraced for life. We were going to say that she is, but if this experience will do her any good she may profit by it and yet become an ornament to refined and pure society. If this belle of Columbia ever had any desire to "wear the breeches" this little experience will undoubtedly "nip it in the bud."

DAILY NEWS

GEO. C. JORDAN, Editor and Prop'r.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1879

TAMMANY Hall has fallen very low when it is glad to act as a bob to the kite of Roscoe Conkling.

WHEN the King of Burmah is drunk he is Theebau of the whole country—and he is generally drunk.

BLAINE used to be an editor. The St. Louis Times-Journal mentions this rather as a compliment to Blaine than to the profession.

NEXT to a Southern outrage, real or imaginary, nothing pleases the stalwart Republicans so well as to report the organization of a Kelly club.

JOHN KELLY is anxious to shine in the role of a wrecker; but the Democratic channel has been well buoyed, and there is no danger that the ship will go ashore.

SPEAKING of the Fall River outrages in connection with the Yazoo lawlessness, the Boston Herald truly says: "But these offenses against law and order, North and South, are but specks on the surface of society. The great mass of the American people are law-abiding, self-respecting, order-loving."

THE Republicans and their coparceners of Tammany Hall had put up a very nice little game to control the election boards of every precinct of New York City, by claiming the appointment of one Tammany, one anti-Tammany and two Republican inspectors, but their plans miscarried. Each board will consist of two Robinson Democrats and two Republicans. This ensures a fair election.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS is described in Forney's Progress as a "weird personality. Take him as a physical marvel, weighing less than a hundred pounds, or as a mental marvel, with unclouded and electric brain, or as a colloquial marvel, with a rapid yet whispered elocution, or as a social marvel, fond of his glass or pipe, he has also a marvelous history. Born in poverty, an orphan at fourteen, friendless and alone, educated by strangers, whom he repaid by subsequent industry, he has been in politics nearly fifty years."

DON'T NOMINATE TOO SOON.

The Charlotte Democrat doesn't want a long canvass of it. It says: "Next year the election for President, Governor, State officers, members of the Legislature, county officers and members of Congress, takes place. As the election will not be held until November, we hope the good people of this State, of both parties, will protest against holding a party convention of any sort to make nominations until the latter part of August, 1880, after crops are laid by. That will give a campaign long enough, and too long for the peace and quiet of the country. From about the 20th of August till the 2d of November will afford time enough to canvass and electioneer."

VERY TRUE.

The Southern Home has this to say about Mr. Tilden's income tax: "When Tilden was nominated for the Presidency in 1876, the United States Government in the hopes of injuring his reputation with the people at large, brought against him a suit known as the income tax. The suit has never been tried, and now Tilden, becoming worried with the matter, has made a motion to compel the government to file a bill of particulars. He wishes to know the charges specifically, so as to make a defence, but it seems that even this simple act of justice is to be denied him. A government that will take such petty revenge and mean advantages can never plant its roots deep in the affections of the people."

THE REAL QUESTION AT THE SOUTH.

The New York World of the 25th contains an interesting article under this head, so interesting, in fact, that we reproduce it in full:

"No doubt there is a 'burning question' now in the South. And it is this: How shall negro thrift be promoted? How shall the pressure of poverty on the negro be alleviated? This is a serious problem in political economy. It is universally treated, nevertheless, by Northern "stalwarts" as if it were a problem to be solved by ballots. Mr. Conkling actually tries in his Saratoga platform to make the voters of New York believe that if they vote for Cornell or Kelly and against Robinson every negro in the South will immediately begin to put money into the savings bank and send his children to school. If either Mr. Conkling or his stalwart allies really believed this it might be less scandalous than it is for them to put aside all thought of the poverty of the laboring people of New York in their zeal to secure so great a boon to the enfranchised millions of the Southern States. But does anybody out of a Massachusetts boarding-school believe that by dropping into New York ballot-boxes the names of candidates dictated by Mr. Conkling the perplexing questions of labor and of race at the South can be met and settled? Are the difficulties under which the South now labors to be swept away by legislation? In former days the North was told, and truly told, that slave labor was mischievous not only through the degradation it inflicted on the negroes in bondage, but on account of its demoralizing influence upon the white race which dwelt in an atmosphere of slavery. Is it likely that the harm done by slavery can have been mended by the great sectional war which came upon the country eighteen years ago? Is it likely that it can have been mended by the passions and the persecutions which followed the war? Those in the South who were boys of seven years when the war began are now young men of twenty-five. Those who were boys of twelve are now grown men of thirty. Those who were lads of seventeen are now mature men of thirty-five. How can ballots cast or laws made in the North on stalwart theories straightway clear out of the minds of all these men the results of their education as to the relations between the owners of the land and the laborers of the land at the South? Or if every negro in the South were to vote at the South under direct advise from Mr. Conkling, and his vote were to be truly recorded, what then?

If Mr. Conkling were President, if the stalwarts controlled Congress as well as the Supreme Court, and if the stalwarts exercised absolute political power in every Southern State—what then? Could the excess of labor as over capital in the South be diminished by any law? What law could change the ownership of the soil? How are the taxes to be diminished, especially if every dollar of the indebtedness fastened on those States by scoundrelly legislators from 1865 to 1879 is to be paid, both principal and interest? How are the negroes to escape giving their share of toil or of money to maintain roads, highways and bridges? How can the soil be made to sustain in a style perfectly satisfactory to every negro a number of laborers beyond the capacity of its capitalists to employ to advantage? And what legislative enactments can suddenly make bright, honest, intelligent citizens out of three or four millions of the African race who but a few brief years ago were in slavery, to be debased by slavery morally and physically as we have been taught by the "stalwarts" to believe that slavery always bebases men? If every African man, and woman in the South could vote a ballot put into his or her hand by Mr. Conkling, would these economic and moral problems be brought one inch nearer to a satisfactory solution? Can there be any permanent cure for the troubles of the South but that which time and education will surely bring? Bear in mind that these millions of Africans a few years ago were chiefly the lowest description of unskilled laborers or farm hands; that they sunderily become freedmen without a dollar of capital, many of them with little more in the way of clothing or of any physical comforts than the beasts of the field. Such a thing as the ownership of houses, or lands, or farming implements, or tools of a trade, or money in a savings bank was by most of them utterly undreamed of. A majority of the white race of that time may have had houses and lands, but they had little or no working capital to use for themselves or for the negroes. There was no money which under any law, no matter how communistic, could have been transferred from the white race to the black race. What was to be done?

What was done from 1865 onward we well know. It was the same thing which Mr. Conkling and the stalwarts ask us to do to-day. It was and it is to set the two races "by the ears" socially, politically and in business matters. Was that the best way—is that the best way to check the growth of wrong and injustice in the relations of the two races?

In England at this moment the pressing inquiry is, What laws can enable English soil to produce all that it is capable of producing? There is no torturing question at the South, for the Southern soil has never yielded so well as it has this year. The inquiry as to the South is, How shall the rich fruits of the Southern earth be justly and fairly divided among those who dwell there? What shall be expended for public education is a question of voting and of law, as well as who shall be compelled to be taught. The life and liberty are fairly protected in the South the great crop of 1879 clearly proves. But can any ballots constrain a landowner to lease his land on terms unsatisfactory to himself, or compel a laborer to toil for pay which he thinks inadequate? If neither the land-owner nor the negro has any money in hand, how can either get along and raise a crop excepting by going into debt, and how can either prescribe the terms on which credit shall be given to him? Will Mr. Conkling's stalwart ballots constrain the owners of loanable capital at the North to lend it on terms agreeable to Southern borrowers? Sensible people at the North think that what is needed first of all in the South is to case the friction of the intercourse of the two races. Can this be done by Mr. Conkling's policy which encourages each race to abhor and despise the other? How can lazy, ignorant, whiskey-dring loafers, white or black, be rescued from mental and moral degradation by ballots in the South any more than in the North? Is it not about time for New York to insist upon some other method of dealing with the South than that which was practised at Washington from 1865 to 1877? Had not New York better demand that the Executive at Washington shall return to the policy towards which Mr. Hayes tended from March, 1877, to March, 1878, but which he has now abandoned under duress from Mr. Conkling?

Mr. Tilden's Great Mistake.

H. Y. Herald.

The greatest mistake made by Mr. Tilden in his management of State politics was in reorganizing Tammany hall, instead of abolishing it, as he could so easily have done after his signal triumph over the Tweed ring. His willingness to convert Tammany into an instrument of his own ambition seems likely to prove a fatal blunder. At the outset Mr. Kelly, the new Tammany chief was obedient and serviceable enough; but once in the saddle he chose to run Tammany in his own interest. Hence the conflict which portends the defeat of Governor Robinson and the blight of Tilden's hopes.

Smitten with the Circus-Fever.

Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle.

Last evening, after the performance was over at the circus, a young man called on Chiaridi and said he wanted to see him on private business. The old veteran took him into his office, and received him with his usual politeness.

"I came up all the way from Carson to see the show, and I'd like to join," said the young man.

"Oh, I see," said the circus man; you are a well-formed, healthy-looking young fellow, and I like to encourage such as you. The youth's face brightened.

"You don't chew' smoke, or drink, I hope?"

"You must leave off these bad habits. They weaken the muscles and paralyze the nerves. You can soon stop drinking, but your salary will not be large until you have overcome these tendencies. A little lomenade—circus lemonade—is all the performers drink. Call at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning and I will see what I can do. You mustn't expect over $50 a week, though, at first. We never pay high salaries until we know just what a man can do."

The delightful Carsonite went away, and this morning was on hand.

Chiarini took him to a tent where three immense Bengal tigers were caged. Handing him a curry-comb and a pair of shears, he remarked:

"Your duties will be comparatively light at first. You will go into the cage and curry the tigers down every morning, and about once a week cut their claws; keep 'em down pretty short, so that when they attack the tiger-tamer, Mr. Wilson they won't lacerate him much. Sometimes, but not more than once a month, you may have occasion to file their teeth. You just throw the animal on his back and hold his head between your knees. If he acts rough, belt him in the nose a few times. Keep belting him until he quiets down."

"Haven't you got a vacancy in the art department?" asked the young man from Carson.

"Is art in your line?" inquired Chiarini.

"Yes," drawled the young man. "In the circuses I have always run with I was employed to paint the stripes on the zebra. I killed so many tigers keepin' 'em straight that the boss wouldn't let me handle 'em. He said I used 'em too rough."

Chiarini swears that the terror from Carson shall have the first vacancy.

VEGETINE

For Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fever,

Or what is more commonly termed FEVER AND AGUE, with pain in the loins and through the back, and indescribable chilly sensation down the spine, an irresistible disposition to yawn pain in the eyes, which is increased by moving them, a blue tinge in the skin, and great listlessness and debility, Vegetine is a safe and positive remedy. It is compounded exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks and herbs, and so strongly concentrates that it is one of the greatest cleansers of the blood that is or can be put together. Vegetine does not stop with breaking Chills and Fever, but it extends its wonderful influence into every part of the human system, and entirely eradicates every taint of disease. Vegetine does not act as a powerful cathartic, or debilitate the bowels and cause the patient to dread other serious complaints which must inevitably follow; but it strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restores the liver and kidneys to healthy action, regulates the bowels, and assists Nature in performing all the duties that devolve upon her.

Thousands of invalids are suffering today from the effects of powerful purgative nostrums, frightful quantities of quinine, and poison doses of arsenic, neither of which ever have, or ever could, reach the true cause of heir tcomplaint.

Vegetine

works in the human system in perfect harmony with nature's laws, and while it is pleasant to the taste, genial to the stomach, and mild in its influence on the bowels, it is absolute in its action on disease, and is not a vile, nauseous Bitters, purging the invalid into false hope that they are being cured. Vegetine is a purely Vegetable Medicine, compounded upon scientific principles. It is indorsed by the best physicians where its virtues have been tested, is recommended only where medicine is needed, and is not a mixture of cheap whiskey sold under the cloak of Bitters.

GIVES HEALTH, STRENGTH, AND APPETITE.

My daughter has received great benefit from the use of Vegetine. Her declining health was a source of great anxiety to all of her friends. A few bottles of the Vegetine restored her health, strength, and appetite.

POLICE TESTIMONY.

BOSTON, Nov. 18, 1875.

Dear Sir,—During the past five years I have had ample opportunity to judge of the merits of Vegetine. My wife has used it for complaints attending a lady of delicate health, with more beneficial results than anything else which she ever tried. I have given it to my children under almost every circumstance attending a large family, and always with marked benefit. I have taken it myself with such great benefit that I cannot find words to express my unqualified appreciation of its goodness.

While performing my duties as a Police Officer in this city, it has been my lot to fall in with a great deal of sickness. I unhesitatingly recommend Vegetine, and I never knew of a case where it did not prove all that was claimed for it. Particularly in cases of debilitated or impoverished state of the blood, its effects are really wonderful; and, for all complaints arising from an impure state of the blood, it appears to work like a charm; and I do not believe there are any circumstances under which Vegetine can be used with injurious results; and it will always afford me pleasure to give any further information as to what I know about Vegetine.

Considerable excitemen was manifested as the end drew near, both horses having gained two heats each, and the field was to decide, which was won by Roanoke, making him the winner in the race. We learn that the horses were well matched and their speed nearly eqnal. Everything passed off quietly, the backers of Roanoke rejoicing over his victory.

Cuticura

REMEDIES

Have speedily and permanently cured Humors of the Skin and Scalp of Children and Infants afflicted since birth.

The treatment prescribed in such cases is mild doses of the CUTICURA RESOLVENT, a perfectly safe yet powerful blood purifier, and the external use of CUTICURA, the great skin cure. The CUTICURA SOAP should be the only soap applied to the diseased skin for cleansing purposes.

Humor on a Child

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen, My little son, two years of age, has had a humor on one side of his face since he was born, which during the last four months has spread over the entire side of the face, the child ear, and side of the head. It must have itched and irritated him a great deal, as he scratched the surface all the time, no matter what was applied. I used many remedies by advice of friends and my physician without benefit until I found CUTICURA, which immediately allayed the itching and inflammation, and entirely cured him. Respectfully, JOHN L. SURRY.

With Walworth Manufacturing Co.

BOSTON, April 15, 1878.

NOTE. Once cured, the skin may be rendered soft and fair by using the Cuticura Soap exclusively for toilet or nursery purposes.

CHILDREN AND INFANTS.

Fred. Rohrer, Esq., Cashier Stock Growers' National Bank, Pueblo, Colo ado, writes: "I am so well pleased with its effects on my baby, that I cannot afford to be without it in my house. It is a wonderful cure, and is bound to become very popular as soon as its virtues are known to the masses."

J. S. Weeks, Esq., Town Treasurer, St. Albans, Vt., says in a letter dated May 28: "It works to a charm on my baby's face and head. Cured the head entirely, and has nearly cleaned the face of sores. I have recommend it to several, and Dr. Plant has ordered it for them."

M. M. Chick, Esq., 41 Franklin St., Boston, says: "My little daughter, eighteen months old, has what the doctors call Eczema. We have tried 'most everything, and at last have used CUTICURA, and she is almost a new child, and we feel very happy."

Prickly Heat.

Incidental to the Texan Climate.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen,—Enclosed please find one dollar for a large box of CUTICURA. The small one that I received some time ago has been very efficacious, especially in Prickly Heat or Rash, as some people call it. I am noising it about.

Yours truly, THOMAS W. BUCKLEY.

MASON, Texas, Sept. 22, 1878.

CUTICURA is a most valuable external application. It heals all cuts, bruises, and abrasions of the skin, restores the hair when destroyed by scalp diseases, removes dandruff and keeps the scalp clean and the hair soft and pliable. It is as agreeable as it is effective, and is ably assisted, in every case by the CUTICURA SOAP, which is particularly recommended to mothers for cleansing the skin and scalp of infants and children. It is Toilet as well as Medicinal, and is the most fragrant and refreshing Soap for the nursery and bath of any these prepared.

Parents have our assurance that these remedies contain nothing injurious to the youngest infant, evidence of which may be found in the certificates of Dr. Hayes and Prof. Merrick accompanying each remedy.

The CUTICURA REMEDIES are prepared by Weeks & Potter, Chemists and Druggists, 360 Washington Street, Boston, Mass., and are for sale by all Druggists. Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 50 cents; large boxes $1. Resolvent, $1 per bottle. Cuticura Soap, 25 cents per cake; by mail, 30 cents; 3 cakes, 75 cents.

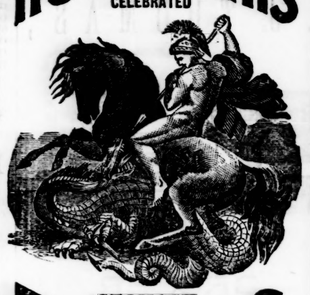
HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED



STOMACH BITTERS

Fever and Ague is most common in the spring, but most severe in the fall and winter. It is strictly a malarious disease, and so surely as the Bitters are adopted, so surely will the individual who adopts this precaution be exempted from its pains and penalties. Add to this its value as a stomachic and anti-bilious agent, and who will venture to gainsay its claims to the first place among family medicines.

The Grand Industrial Procession at the State Fair on Wednesday 15th October.

The details are being rapidly matured for one of the most brilliant and effective features ever introduced at a fair in our State. This consist of a grand procession, illustrating the various avocations pursued among us, and especially the several branches of mercantile business, manufacturing operations and mechanical arts. A committee composed of some of the most esteemed mechanics of our city is co-operating with the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Agricultural Society in the preparation of this great demonstration from the industrial classes of North Carolina. Sufficient encouragement has already been rendered, to assure us of success. A meeting will be held next Wednesday evening at the office of the Society, of the gentlemen who will take part in the procession, of which we have already a long list of those of our most enterprising mechanics. Doubtless our merchants will be equally represented. We hear of many interesting and amusing features that will be introduced in the procession. The parade will be made through the principal streets to the fair grounds, when the procession will be ably welcomed. Among those already enrolled we understand that wagons in line suitably decorated, will bear the printer setting type and printing a small paper to be distributed on the march, the carpenter working on his materials, and erecting a small house; the wagon maker putting together his work, the tailor sewing, the wool merchant will have snowy heaps of treasure about him, the bookbinder with his corps of young ladies folding and stiching, the florist, amid heaps of fragrant flowers, the machinists with his tools, blacksmith at his forge, tobacco manufacturer packtobacco, cigar maker plying his swift fingers, the brick maker, carriage manufacturer, bottler, builder, and many others that we omit for want of space.

Thus the mechanic comes bravely up by the side of the farmer in this magnificent demonstration of the influence of the bone and sinew of the land in our social system.

We now cordially invite the machanics and manufacturers of other towns to come forward and take part in a grand industrial reunion. For example let every tobacco manufacturer in Durham, Winston and Henderson be represented. Delegations from all points in the State will be gladly welcomed. For full information address C. B. Denson, Secretary.

Donations to The North Carolina Agricultural Society.

The following are donations to the North Carolina Agricultural Society for the 19th Annual State Fair, to be held at Raleigh, October 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th next, acknowledged by C. B. Denson, secretary, in behalf of the Executive Committee:

One Powells Formula, a compound for wheat, oats, grass, etc., being two bags prepared dissolved bone, and one bag of magnesia, and potash, $12.00. To these chemicals add one bag of plaster and 18 bushels of muck, wood soil, or ashes, and the mixture will make a ton of fertlizer. Two hundred to four hundred pounds to the acre is commonly used as the quality of land may require. Also the Powells formula, a compound for cotton, being one bag dissolved bone, one bag chemicals, ammonia, nitrate of soda, potash and magnesia and one bag Windsor plaster, $12.00. To these chemicals add five hundred pounds green cotton seed or ashes, and twelve bushels of good dry rich earth, for a ton of fertilizer, being from three hundred to four hundred pounds per acre. The above valuable contributions are given by the Brown chemical company, twenty-five South Sharp street Baltimore Maryland through Captain R. B. Saunders late of Raleigh, and so well and favorably known in North Carolina, for his long connection with the business of supplying reliable fertilizers. We are pleased to hear that he will shortly visit us. A great number of testimonials are offered to the value of these formula's, and the success of the former as his own manufacturer.

Twenty-five pounds "Standard of the World" Durham Smoking Tobacco, given by J. R. Day & Brother, Durham, N. C. The principal of the firm was late a member of W. T. Blackwell & Company. We had recently the opportunity of inspecting the interesting process of the manufacture of the works of these gentlemen in Durham, and observed the rapidity with which their fine goods is building up their trade. We are sure that they have a flattering future before them. They will exhibit a fine assortment of tobacco at the fair.

Forty pounds Knitting Cotton, given by W. H. Hill, agent Oakdale Manufacturing Company, Greensboro, N. C. One of the most gratifying features of the present outlook of our State Agricultural Society is the interest exhibited by our manufacturers and men of industrial pursuits. This is not the first time the Oakkale Company has been represented by a liberal dynation, and we wish it much success.

JOB OSBORN.

Why Will You

Allow a cold to advance in your system and thus encourage more serious maladies, such as Pneumonia, Hemorrhages and Lung troubles when an immediate relief can be so readily attained. Boschee's German Syrup has gained the largest sale in the world for the cure of Cough, Colds and the severest Lung Diseases. It is Dr. Boschee's famous German prescription, and is prepared with the greatest care, and no fear need be entertained in administering it to the youngest child, as per directions. The sale of this medicine is unprecedented. Since first introduced there has been a constant increasing demand and without a single report of a failure to do its work in any case. Ask your Druggist as to the truth of these remarks. Large size 75 cents. Try it and be convinced.

Prejudice.

The prejudice of many in favor of the old methods of treatment is vanishing before the accumulated evidence in favor of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. Sept. 15 79.

Our Family Bread.

Truly, the most important adulterations to avoid are those which are calculated to injure the "staff of life." Merchants who supply their customers with pure articles like Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, retain better patrons, have a larger trade, and make more money than those who recommend cheap adulterated powders.

It is asserted that the ordinary cosmetics used by ladies are productive of great mischief. We believe this is so, and that a better means of securing a beautiful complexion is to use some blood medicine like Rosadalis, the great Southern Remedy, which cleanses the blood and gives permanent beauty to the skin.
